CULTURAL DIRECTIONS

Gladiolus do well in most any type of soil but they must be planted in the open where there is plenty of sunshine. A good commercial fertilizer worked well into the soil before planting will give the best blooms. One-half ($\frac{1}{2}$) pound to each 10 square feet of soil. After the plants get their fourth leaf they should have plenty of water.

PLANTING DIRECTIONS

Plant large bulbs about five inches deep, smaller ones three inches. Plant the bulbs about six inches apart in single or double rows two to three feet apart. If they are to be planted in beds—six inches apart each way is best. Dust plants with 3 to 5% D. D. T. Dust once a week for Gladiolus Thrip. You will have better blooms if you will start dusting when the plants are about six inches high.
